The Course

The Enneagram provides a way of understanding human personality and is used in many contexts including spiritual direction. It is a tool to help us on the spiritual journey, helping people grow in prayer and worship, discover their pathway to God and to find inner healing. It helps us understand why we are all different and have characteristic and appropriate ways of doing things. It gives insights which can help us to accept human diversity and celebrate the gifts that each personality type brings to enrich human life.

The course runs on Friday 25th October from 7.30 to about 9.30pm (coffee and tea will be served from 7pm) and on Saturday 26th October from 10am to about 5pm. Attendance at both Friday and Saturday sessions is necessary.

The course is led by The Revd Dr. David Rake, an Anglican priest living in the west of the county. He is an experienced spiritual director and retreat leader and has run Enneagram courses over many years. He was Spirituality Adviser in the Diocese of Truro 1998 - 2008.

Cost and Booking

The cost of the course is £35. Cheques should be made payable to "The Epiphany Trust (Truro) Ltd". Payments may also be made via BACS or paid in cash at the office but please note we do not currently have facilities for card payments. To book, please contact the office: email info@epiphanyhouse.co.uk or tel. 01872 272249.

Accommodation and meals

Participants are free to attend the two sessions as day guests in order to keep costs down. There will be a simple soup lunch included on the Saturday. All drinks will be provided. For those who wish to make more space or are travelling some distance, overnight accommodation is available. The cost of an overnight stay with a self-service continental-style breakfast is £36 in addition to the course fee.
